BE PART OF SOMETHING BIGGER!

Are you interested in learning more about the history and contributions of Hispanic/Latinx communities in New York from primary sources? Then join us this Spring in ELN194.0395 The Puerto Rican Community (in English) and ELS204.5237 Latin American Civilizations (in Spanish), where you can work with documents that chronicle the joys, pains, contributions, and survival sagas of Hispanic/Latinx groups with roots in Mexico, the Caribbean, Central and South America, Spain, and transnational communities in New York. If you are fluent in Spanish, you can join ELS209.0443 Spanish Grammar and Usage, and help translate these fascinating documents from English and make them available to students in the Spanish-speaking world for future collaborative projects with institutions abroad. All three classes fulfill Pathways flexible core categories, and ELN194 fulfills the urban study requirement. Don't delay--classes fill fast! Be a part of it: Nueva York, Nueva York!
